

Leadership from the Inside Out:

A workshop for Men

Thursday
February
24th, 2011
7-9pm

Join us for an inspiring and challenging evening exploring what it takes to become the kind of men we all long to be—men of integrity, courage and passion who are leading lives of meaning and purpose. Our vision is for men to lead from their hearts and not simply their heads. When we understand more about ourselves and the forces at work within us, we are free to lead in creating more nourishing and rewarding relationships.

Most of us have had training to improve our performance in academics, athletics and business. When was the last time you were encouraged and equipped to become a better person? We believe true leadership begins in the heart and radiates from the inside out. In this workshop you will receive training as well as work in small groups to learn principles and skills which will help to improve your leadership in the relationships that matter most to you.
